

River Ecosystems Models and Science

- Multi-disciplinary effort to develop tools for addressing science and management needs related to water availability
- Links physical sciences with biological sciences and includes potential effects of climate change
- Demonstration with Klamath Basin water issues
- One element examines rearing habitat for juvenile salmonids and the importance of coldwater refugia
- Tagging study with PIT tags and bioenergetics modeling

